Introduction
The mission of the BSPH program in health policy and management is to improve the health of individuals and communities and reduce health inequities in the United States and abroad by educating future health leaders, managers, policymakers, practitioners, and researchers. Our graduates will excel in a broad range of positions and graduate and professional degree programs. Our vision is to foster high quality, accessible, and affordable health systems that achieve optimal population health in North Carolina, the United States, and around the world.

Advising
All students are assigned a faculty advisor in the department. Faculty advisors work collaboratively with the program director, office of student services, and career services coordinator to support students’ academic, professional development, and career services needs.

Graduate School and Career Opportunities
The program prepares students for both entry-level positions and advanced degree programs. Graduates obtain positions in a variety of organizations, such as health care consulting firms (e.g., McKinsey, Deloitte, Huron, EY), hospitals (UNC Hospitals, Mt. Sinai), health systems (UNC Healthcare, Duke, Emory), physician practices (Anesthesiology Associates), local governmental public health departments, federal government agencies (Centers for Disease Control), health research organizations (Research Triangle Institute), community health organizations (community health centers), health insurance companies (Blue Cross/Blue Shield of N.C.), health technology organizations (Epic), universities (UNC, Yale), associations (Children’s Hospital Association), start-ups (Towerview Health), and global health organizations (Peace Corps, Global Health Corps, USAID, CDC).

Graduates also regularly pursue advanced degrees at some of the world’s most highly regarded universities in a range of fields, such as healthcare management, public health (e.g., health policy, health behavior and education, epidemiology, global health), public policy, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, business administration, law, and accounting. They commonly do this either right after graduation, or after a few years in the workplace following graduation.
