

STUDIO ART MINOR

Students majoring in another department may elect to pursue a minor in studio art. The minor consists of five courses at different levels and is intended to expose undergraduate students to a range of studio art ideas and practices. Students minoring in studio art may choose from a broad selection of courses, including drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture, printmaking, digital media, special topics, mixed media, and photography. Art history majors may not pursue a studio art minor.
